

Newsflash

UNFPA EVALUATION OFFICE

Issue #8, September 2019

Global
Parliamentarians
Forum for Evaluation

New partnership to promote demand and use of evaluation
by national decision-makers to achieve sustainable development

From the Director's desk

UNFPA Evaluation Office is pleased to announce a new partnership with the Global Parliamentarians Forum for Evaluation (GPFE) to enhance the engagement of parliamentarians to demand and use evaluations in decision-making for sustainable development.

GPFE is a network of parliamentarians who are committed to using evidence for policy development, good governance and increased social accountability. The forum was launched at the Parliament of Nepal in November 2015 in the context of the International Year of Evaluation. UNFPA, among other United Nations entities, are supporting GPFE to strengthen its mandate.

This partnership is particularly significant as world leaders, parliamentarians and other decision-makers convene at the 74th session of United Nations General Assembly for the next two weeks, to discuss the progress made to implement the 2030 Agenda, among other global issues.

This collaboration is further aligned with UNFPA Evaluation Policy \(2019\) to meaningfully engage national decision-makers in evaluation, to drive achievement of ICPD and Sustainable Development Goals.

Stay tuned for more updates on this partnership.

Marco Segone

Director, UNFPA Evaluation Office

Key initiatives

Deliver on the Colombo Declaration signed at the Parliament of Sri Lanka during EvalColombo2018

Develop knowledge products to share best practices on national evaluation policies and systems and institutionalization of evaluation within parliaments

Support peer-to-peer learning among parliamentarians, parliaments, public institutions, Voluntary Organizations for Professional Evaluation (VOPEs) and civil society

Support GPFE to strengthen advocacy and outreach to more parliamentarians, parliaments and stakeholders to promote a culture of evaluation to achieve sustainable development

Contact the Evaluation Office for further information on this partnership
To learn more about evaluations at UNFPA, visit M&E Net Community

Copyright © 2019 UNFPA Evaluation Office.